Sabah Museum Monograph, Vol. 4 (1993)

LOTUD PHONEMICS

David and Doris Blood

1. INTRODUCTION

"Lotud" is the name that the people apply to themselves and to their language.[1] The language is also sometimes called "Tuaran Dusun", and the Lotud people are aware of their linguistic kinship, especially with other nearby Dusunic language groups. There are between 5,000 and 6,000 Lotud people scattered in various villages within a few kilometres of Tuaran, which is about 32 kilometres north of Kota Kinabalu, Sabah, Malaysia.

PHONOLOGICAL DESCRIPTIONS of
SABAH LANGUAGES

Studies from ten languages:
Bonggi
Ida'an
Kadazan/Dusun
Kalabuan
Kimaragang
Labuk-Kinabatangan Kadazan
Lotud
Tagal
Tatana'
Tombonuwo

Edited by Michael E. Boutin and Inka Pekkanen

SABAH MUSEUM
KOTA KINABALU
1993